Introduction to Disability Justice in Counseling

Friday October 21, 2022 at Noon

presented by Aarynn Cypher

ASL Interpretation and Closed Captioning provided includes NBCC Cultural Competence 2 CEU

Join us to discuss creating safety and empowerment through Disability Justice in counseling. We will review the cultural history of disability, including the prevalence of ableism and the ease of intentional and unintentional harm to people with disabilities. We will take time to identify our own participation in ableism and learn how we can think and act differently to create a safe and empowering space when talking about disability and the identity of disability. Included with this webinar will be resources to support a continued journey in the culture of Disability and Disability Justice.

Aarynn Cypher has an 18-year history in the helping professions, working as the director of a rural community mentoring program then moving to Portland to support parent/child relationships as a family support specialist/home visitor. She attended Portland State University and earned her Master of Science degree in Counseling with an accreditation in Clinical Rehabilitation Counseling. Aarynn is currently a Rehabilitation Counselor at DHS Vocational Rehabilitation and a member of Oregon Society for Sexual, Affectional, Intersex and Gender
